

Keynote: Britt Andreatta, PhD

Director of Learning and Development, Lynda.com and Senior Consultant of Talent and Leadership Development, LinkedIn

Britt is a seasoned professional with more than 25 years of experience working with thousands of people. Her research and experience consulting with businesses, universities, and nonprofit organizations have allowed her to create powerful solutions to today's workplace challenges.

Britt has published several titles on learning and leadership including Neuroscience of Learning, Leading Change, Having Difficult Conversations, and Leading with Emotional Intelligence. Her latest book, Wired to Grow: Harness the Power of Brain Science to Master Any Skill is available on Amazon.

A highly sought-after speaker and thought leader, Britt delivered a TEDx talk called "How Your Past Hijacks Your Future" that received rave reviews and she regularly speaks at corporate events and international conferences.

Dr. Andreatta has served as professor and dean at the University of California, Antioch University, and several graduate schools. She has consulted with Fortune 100 companies and within the industries of healthcare, technology, construction, retail, travel, food, and education.

Britt won the 2014 Gold Medal for Chief Learning Officer magazine's prestigious Trailblazer Award for the leadership development program she implemented at Lynda.com. She was recently nominated for the 2015 Strategy Award for her work in creating a performance management system based on growth mindset principles. She now serves as a Senior Learning Consultant for Talent and Leadership Development at LinkedIn.

Britt is currently writing her next books on the neuroscience of change and the conscious evolution of organizations. To learn more, visit her website and social media channels. To learn more visit her website: www.BrittAndreatta.com

She will be signing her latest book, Wired to Grow: Harness the Power of Brain Science to Master Any Skill at the conference.