

Hit Your Bullseye: Influence Emotion to Motivate Action

The ability to communicate with purpose and clarity is the key to personal and professional success. In this session, you will explore how to communicate using the powerful technique global leaders use so you can influence stakeholders, quickly establish credibility, and deliver engaging and effective training to ensure learning outcomes. You will observe measurable results by employing these communication approaches in both in-person and virtual environments.

Learn:

- How to influence, persuade and motivate behavior change and action by influencing emotion.
- How to clearly communicate your messages by aligning your voice and body language.
- How to improve how you provide feedback, lead efficient meetings, and/or deliver critical information.
