

How Mobile Technology Can Play a Role in Your E-Learning Initiatives

As most educators pivot to a virtual space due to the pandemic, connecting with your learners and making sure they absorb your information has become increasingly more difficult. Rather than compete with technology, this session will demonstrate how mobile technology can play a role in e-learning best practices in both the virtual and in-person classrooms.

- Define mobile learning (or “m-learning”)
- Differentiate m-Learning from e-Learning, and discuss how we can integrate both
- Explore how to create compelling learning experiences for “small screens”
- Explore making the “business case” for m-learning
- Review existing apps, platforms and tools for m-Learning
